North Wales is small but our list of attractions is big

We've mountains. Really big ones like Snowdon and Tryfan. Where you can climb, scramble, hike and abseil. What about a train ride up Wales and England's highest peak for a cappuccino. Hafod Eryri, the state-of-the-art visitor centre on Snowdon's majestic summit has to be seen to be believed.

North Wales is famous for its slate and mighty castles, after all it was here in Caernarfon that prince Charles was crowned Prince of Wales. And now his son Prince William and Kate Middleton will live an ultra-modern, and ultra green royal fairytale on the idyllic Isle of Anglesey. We've 9 National Trust properties, 11 Cadw sites, sea zoos and mountain zoos. 7 out of the 10 Great Little Trains of Wales are here too, plus many exciting family attractions such as GreenWood Forest Park

Why not visit some of our 'Big Ticket Attractions' featured. These attractions are some of the most visited and will give you a real idea of what North Wales
